Marie Curie Cancer Care

Cancer is the UK's biggest killer. Every year it claims the lives of more than 150,000 people, with a further one million living with the disease at any one time.

Marie Curie cancer care is working tirelessly for you and your loved ones by challenging the disease through its work in cancer and research.

Every year the charity provides care for around 25,000 cancer patients and their families entirely free of charge.

In the community, high quality Marie Curie Nursing gives terminally ill people the choice of dying at home, supported by their families.

At our 10 Marie Curie Hospices, we actively promote quality of life for patients and again provide much needed support for their carers. The charity is also investigating the causes of cancer and better ways to treat the disease at the Marie Curie Research Institute.

Rare visitor drops in to take advantage of old apple tree

IN A GARDEN near our house stands one old apple tree. Many people pass by and think, "What's that ugly old tree doing there? Why doesn't anyone tidy up the garden and cut it down?"

But I love that tree, and I'm not the only one. I'll tell you why.

Every year it produces beautiful apples that no-one gathers – most of them falling onto the ground below to rot – food for blackbirds, slugs and woodlice. Goldfinches often sit in its upper branches, and chaffinches use it as a song-post and have, I believe, built their nest there as have great tits, in its natural holes.

Last Saturday I was gazing out of my window and noticed much activity in the tree – it was full of birds. There were a few starlings, and the odd redwing and blackbird, but I looked closer and noticed a pair of blackcaps too, as well as blue tits and great tits. The bark of the tree is gnarled, and parts of it are rotten. But this means that as well as offering delicious fruit for the birds, it is also full of tasty insects, and has ideal holes for the tits to nest in. One day a great spotted woodpecker lurched in and spent a while carefully inspecting the nooks and crannies for grubs.

Illustration: a waxwing by wildlife artist Michael Wood www.michaelcwood.co.uk

But this year the tree has excelled itself. One of the starlings didn't look quite right – too sleek, too grey. Then the penny dropped – 'my' tree had attracted a waxwing – a rare visitor from Scandinavia, chased south by even colder weather in northern Europe. So simultaneously, or very close in time, the elderly tree held: blackbird, blackcap, blue tit, fieldfare, great tit, redwing, song thrush, starling, waxwing and wren.

The next day the waxwing was back, with another, and the day after there were three. Exotic and proud-looking, they would happily feed on the apples, seemingly untroubled and unnoticed by people walking past.

They have a routine – appearing each morning for a feed, then flying off, to appear again for another snack around tea time. Sometimes they utter a strange slurred whistling contact call, possibly indicating mild alarm. They are approachable, with care, and appear to be quite untroubled by people (maybe they don't normally see many) though they are also watchful and alert – wary and disdainful, yet somehow quite tame – odd behaviour that suits their rather bizarre appearance. They remind me of small parrots.

So, long live the old apple tree, and may this serve as a plea to gardeners not to worry if their garden looks untidy – nature likes it that way, and so do bird watchers.

Getting help on to the property ladder

ARE you sick of renting and desperate for a home to call your own – but the bottom rung of the property ladder still seems out of your financial reach?

If so, don't worry, because help is at hand. Recognising the difficulties faced by first time buyers, the Government has introduced several schemes to help people get a foot on the ladder.

If you cannot save up a large enough deposit or get a big enough mortgage, a series of schemes are open to households with a combined income of less than £60,000 a year. If you are a first-time buyer, a key worker – such as a teacher, doctor or nurse – renting from a housing association or local authority, or a previous home owner who needs some help to be able to buy, you could be entitled to financial assistance under several projects.

Our Barclays Money Skills campaign to help readers make the most of their cash looks at getting on the property ladder.
STEPHEN EXLEY reports.

The first of these is called New Build Homebuy.

You can start by purchasing as little as 25 per cent of a new build property and pay rent on the rest, and then have the option of buying a larger share when you can afford it.

HomeBuy Direct instead offers an equity loan for up to 30 per cent of the value of certain newly-built properties. The loan can be used as a deposit and is repaid when you sell the property, but you'll need a regular mortgage to buy the property.

If you would prefer some more flexibility, the Rent to HomeBuy scheme allows you to rent a newly-built home from a housing association at a subsidised rate for up to five years. You have the option of buying your rented home during or after the rental period. This means you can take advantage of the low rent to save a deposit.

Karen Coleman, team manager for Orbit HomeBuy Agents – which manages the scheme in Cambridgeshire, said: "We are absolutely delighted to have had the opportunity to help so many people find a home that they can afford, whether they are purchasing or renting."

"Our statistics clearly show that we are able to help a wide range of people in all sorts of circumstances, so if you are seeking an affordable home, please get in touch with us. We can quickly assess your eligibility for HomeBuy and you could soon be moving into the home you've been dreaming of."

To find out more about opportunities in Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire, Norfolk and Suffolk, visit www.orbithomebuyagents.co.uk

Professor hopes blog will help others with degenerative disease

Fighting: Prof Mark Cato, who has Motor Neurone Disease, is writing a blog about his experiences, which he hopes will bring cheer to others. Pictures: Vikki Lince 628834.

SITTING in his garden office – a wood-panelled room lined with books, family photos and mementoes from numerous trips abroad – Professor Mark Cato is in a buoyant mood.

Pointing at his computer screen, he explains: "Today's a red letter day! Look! My blog has just passed the 200,000 hit mark. Can you believe it? And that's only in nine months. I just find that staggering..."

Mark's blog, titled Dying to Live, charts his ongoing battle with Motor Neurone Disease (MND). It's a battle the father-of-two will never win: he estimates that 50 per cent of people diagnosed with MND die within 14 months; the other half live an average of two to five years.

"I knew straight away I had a five-year death penalty," he says. "They did say one in 10 people can go for 10 years, so I put my hand up and said 'I'll take that one!' But I'm nearly 76; I've had a good run. I'd like another 20 years, of course, but I'm not going to get it."

A progressive neurodegenerative disease, MND attacks the motor neurones in the brain and spine – the nerves that send messages to the muscles.

BY ALICE RYAN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Degeneration of those neurones leads to the weakness and wasting of muscles, causing loss of mobility and, eventually, difficulties with speech, swallowing and breathing. It's a terminal illness.

"I can't pretend I was excited about having it," continues Mark, "particularly when I read about all the awful things that are going to happen to me, about how I'm going to die, which is horrible."

"When it hits the throat, that's the ultimate finish. You can't swallow, can't speak, can't breathe; you die of suffocation or drowning in fluid from your lungs."

"Not that I'm afraid of dying: I have absolutely no fear of death. And I don't believe in God. I just pray I'm right. If not, Peter will say 'Sorry, chum, you didn't believe in me – you can go to the other place.'"

With that, Mark gives a hearty laugh, then takes a large sip of his favourite China tea. It's served in a beaker, complete with a very long straw. That's the only way Mark can drink it: he lost the use of his hands to MND months ago. "The first hand went quite quickly; the other stayed a little longer," he explains. "And it's just unbelievable. It drives me crazy."

Even though Mark knows he's fighting a losing battle, it's clear he has no intention of giving up. The owner of an ingenious mind – over an incredibly colourful lifetime, he's been crowned World Monopoly Champion (he was, jointly, the first ever, back in 1972) and devised an automated egg-boiling device, called the Perfegg Timer – Mark has come up with all kinds of nifty solutions to his physical problems.

"This," he says proudly, "is my smoking stick", gesturing towards a wooden kitchen roll holder; it's fitted with three metal clips, one, he explains, for each size of cigar he favours (the largest fits a Monte Cristo). As he demonstrates, once a lit cigar is snug in a clip, he can puff away hands-free.

Other clever ideas include attaching key-rings to zips (making them easier to get hold of), sewing large loops to his underpants (so he can pull them up unaided) and replacing his trouser flies with velcro (again, so he can take them on and off himself).

"I had some people here from Coventry University this week," adds Mark. "They've taken away five of my designs and seemed pretty excited about a couple of them in particular. They aren't just designed to help people with MND, you see. They could make a real difference to the elderly, people with arthritis..."

A law professor, who's spent the last 10 years lecturing in China, Mark explains that's why he started the blog – to help both himself and other people, "the sick, the terminally ill and the depressed".

"I had prostate cancer 10 years ago, but that's another story, which we'll come on to," he explains. "I decided then that I wanted to give something back; the way I see it, all my life I've been a taker."

"My motto, as people who read the blog will see, is 'caring through sharing'. It's a diary, following me dying. But there is also a lot of humour in it – anecdotes and jokes."

"If people can chuckle for five minutes, and realise that life maybe isn't as bad as they think, well, that's what it's all about, really. That's the reason I'm doing this interview."

Pointing out a pair of bulging ring-binders on the table, Mark explains they contain a copy of his autobiography written, not for publication, but for his family. It is, he admits, quite a story.

"I have no real memories of my life before the age of 16; it was not a happy childhood," he says. Despite sitting university entrance exams aged just 15, and getting a place, Mark explains his mother couldn't afford to send him. Instead, he went to work for an architect, "like the original Colonel Blimp, with a shiny pate and bristling moustache", and ended up training as a surveyor, achieving chartered status at 21.

"I was an old man at 21, really," continues Mark, who was then sent to first Australia and then Arabia, before settling back in England with his wife, Alice. The couple, who live in the Saffron Walden area, have now been married for almost 47 years and, as well as two children, have three grandchildren.

It was while overseas, in the late 1970s, that Mark had a near-fatal accident. "I was playing polo against the British Army," he recounts, taking another swig of tea. "I played off +2, which I believe was the same as Princes Philip and Charles. Anyway, this chap yelled forward, I galloped forward and he drove the ball 20 yards straight into the back of my neck. Turns out it smashed four vertebrae.

"I didn't fall off, I got my breath back and played on. It wasn't until years later, when my left arm started tingling, and my right leg, that I knew anything was wrong."

Going to hospital for an X-ray, Mark, who was then running his own property company, was admitted on the spot: investigations showed that his neck was being held together by a frighteningly thin piece of bone (thinner than his drinking straw, Mark says). "They said my neck could have snapped at any moment," he adds. "Eight weeks to the day I took the casing off and went to play squash."

Mark refutes the suggestion he has a 'gung-ho' attitude to life. "I've just had a lot of fun," he grins. "If I had to describe myself, I would say I'm 40 going on 35. I have a lot of good mates and we still go out and get a little bit drunk in London. In a way, you could say I'm living the childhood now I missed out on as a young man."

"I came back in a taxi the other day and, when I tried to get out, I couldn't," continues Mark. "I'd had a good lunch, I'll admit that. But it happens to me sometimes: my legs are weakened by the MND. The driver just sat there, impassive, as if to say 'I've seen so many hopeless drunks before'."

Having always dreamed of being a lawyer, Mark decided to retrain in his 40s; at 59, he graduated from King's College, London, with an MSc – and he's been writing and lecturing on arbitration ever since. He visits China every year, where he is affiliated to two universities.

Mark, who says Alice is an incredible source of support, goes on to say that his fight with cancer is also documented on his website, www.dmarkcato.com

he was declared in remission. But he's been dealing with the after-effects of the surgery ever since; among other things, he now has an implant in his scrotum which allows him to control his urinary tract.

"Everything about my life is undignified now," he says.

Always very sporty, Mark says he was super-fit when he was diagnosed with MND, in April 2008. "I was going to the gym three times a week and burning 1,000 calories a time," he says. "I noticed my left hand was dragging a bit... I went for a check-up, got referred and was diagnosed with MND.

"Don't think I'm happy about it: I'm not. I do get a bit low from time to time, though not often. I'm always busy: I still come into this office every day and do a day's work."

With the issue of assisted suicide very much in the news, Mark says he has thought a lot about it. "When I get anywhere near that stage, when it gets to my throat, I'm going to have a couple of bottles of Bollinger, soft music, my family around me, the old photos out, and I'm going to slip away, while I can still do it myself," he says.

"I believe we all have the right over our own body. Even from what you've seen of me, what do you think would be the point of me lying there, a total vegetable, unable to speak or move or swallow? It just isn't me, is it?"

Until then, Mark is determined to live his life as fully as possible – and to have as much fun as time will allow. He also intends to keep penning his blog, which he writes on a voice-activated computer.

"As I said, I hope reading it will make some people smile," adds Mark. "Then I will feel I've done a good job. I hope people will realise you can overcome adversity and still have some fun out of life."

Ghostly trail leads to a spine-tingler

THE classic theatre thriller, with a reputation for spine-tingling intensity, is preparing to work its wonders on Cambridge audiences this week.

The Woman in Black, adapted by Stephen Mallatrat from the novel by Susan Hill, has been creating a stir among critics for more than 20 years and has been seen by seven million people since it first came to the stage at the Theatre-By-The-Sea in Scarborough in 1987.

It opened in the West End in 1989 and has been a major audience-puller ever since.

It is now a major hit in the US, South America and Japan too.

The play tells the story of a lawyer who, obsessed with a curse that he believes has been cast over him and his family by the spectre of a 'woman in black', engages a sceptical young actor to help him tell his terrifying story and exorcise his fear.

As they delve further into the lawyer's darkest memories, the pair find themselves caught up in a world of eerie marshes and moaning winds as the borders between make-believe and reality begin to blur...

Performed live, the atmosphere of The Woman in Black is able to creep among the living, breathing audience.

The production is directed by Robin Herford and stars Robert Demeger, who will be returning to the role of Arthur Kipps. He is joined by Peter Bramhill.

An exciting addition to the evening's thrills and chills is also being offered by the Cambridge Arts Theatre.

Before the show, a guided ghost walk will take participants on a ghostly tour around Cambridge's dark side streets and ancient locations where ghostly sightings have been reported.

The tour takes one hour and leaves from the front of the Guildhall at 6.15pm.

■ The Woman in Black, Cambridge Arts Theatre, March until Saturday, 7.45pm. Tickets cost from £10 (£30 including Ghost Walk). Contact (01223) 503333/ www.cambridgeartstheatre.com

Chilling tale: Peter Bramhill as the 'Young Actor' (front) with Robert Demeger as lawyer Arthur Kipps.

Ravishing show but the girls can't help it

CHERRY and Blossom are the alter egos of Cambridge drama students Eve Rosato and Emily-Jane Swanson.

They describe their latest ravishing production as both "vaudeville cabaret" and "jazz-age burlesque".

In this glittering show, the pair take the audience through a whirlwind tour of musical delights from days gone by.

Stops include the fast-paced fun of 20s flappers, the jazz clubs of the 30s, the wartime melodies of the 40s, the mambo of the 50s and the psychedelic 60s.

Eve and Emily-Jane first set up their musical double act under the name Short and Sweet in 2009, performing at several Cambridge May Balls.

They also performed at the Cambridge Union Society's Valentine's Ball last month.

They are both well known for their acting talents: recently you may have spotted Eve on stage as Maria in the Marlowe Society's production of Twelfth Night at the Cambridge Arts Theatre.

Emily-Jane has been involved with many shows, and is also one of the university's most celebrated costume designers.

■ The Girls Can't Help It, Corpus Playrooms, until Saturday, at 9.30pm. Tickets £5-£6. Contact 01992 503333.

Sword in the Soul at Trinity

GRIER'S unpublished Sword in the Soul receives a second performance in Trinity College Chapel, Cambridge, tomorrow in a free, non-ticketed event.

Sword in the Soul combines music composed by Francis Grier with dramatic texts by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Rt Rev Rowan Williams.

Narrating the story leading up to the crucifixion of Christ, the work was conceived as a meditation on the events of Good Friday.

Eminent English poet Geoffrey Hill narrates alongside opera librettist and chaplain of Trinity College, Alice Goodman and acting dean of King's College Chapel, Richard Lloyd-Morgan.

The music is performed by Queen Mary's Consort, one of Cambridge's finest vocal ensembles, under the direction of Michael Waldron, accompanied by cellist David Foster.

Sword in the Soul was born out of a BBC commission for a live radio broadcast from Trinity College Chapel, Cambridge, on Good Friday in 1991 and is still unpublished.

The performance begins at 8pm and will last approximately 45 minutes.

A collection will be made in aid of Amnesty International.

Details of the event and performers can be found at www.swordinthesoul.com or for more information contact mw411@cam.ac.uk or call 07793891994.

The big film

FROM PARIS WITH LOVE (15, 92 mins) Thriller. John Travolta, Jonathan Rhys Meyers, Kasia Smutniak, Amber Rose Revah, Richard Durden.

Director: Pierre Morel.

PARIS: The city of romantic overtures, fine cuisine, sartorial elegance, and crunching cars chases along the Avenue des Champs-Élysées.

Director Pierre Morel returns to the scene of previous cinematic crimes for this explosive tour of the capital in the company of two mismatched American agents on a quest to dismantle a terrorist cell.

Morel's last film, Taken, at least had the good sense to cast Liam Neeson, an actor with gravitas, in the underwritten lead role of a father seeking justice.

Here, he's lumbered with the handsome yet inexpressive Jonathan Rhys Meyers, and John Travolta, an actor who has never been on speaking terms with subtlety and nuance.

Ironically, it is Travolta's voracious scenery-chewing and wide-eyed ravings which turn out to be the guilty pleasure of From Paris With Love, an otherwise dumb action adventure that clumsily pilfers scenes from the Bourne trilogy.

Cast as a renegade US operative with a twitchy trigger finger, the Oscar-nominated star of Saturday Night Fever and Pulp Fiction is the one member of cast to treat Adi Hasak's script with the disdain it deserves.

And, in a cute nod to former glories, his remarkably athletic agent also gets to share his love of the local gastronomic delights. "Here, the locals call my vice a Royale with cheese," he grins, barely resisting an urge to wink playfully at the camera.

Government agent James Reese (Meyers) is desperate to impress the powers that be, and graduate from his current position as an ambassadorial aide. He gets his chance when he is asked to help Charlie Wax (Travolta) pass through Parisian customs and complete his secret peace mission.

Unexpectedly partnered with a fast-talking stranger who turns out to be a gun-toting lunatic, James struggles to understand what his role in the mission might be as Charlie shoots anyone and everyone in his path.

In the process, James acquires a vase full of cocaine and an incredibly tall tale to impart to his doting, seamstress girlfriend, Carolina (Smutniak).

From Paris With Love is nonsense from lacklustre start to pyrotechnic-laden finish, and hinges weakly on the non-existent chemistry between the two male leads.

Buddy movies demand sharp comic timing and a clearly defined narrative arc for the characters from distrust and irritation to mutual admiration.

Morel's film has none of these qualities, leaving Travolta to blast each location to smithereens as a spectacularly wooden Rhys Meyers pouts in the background.

Don't leave it too late to buy your summer bulbs

The first daffodils may barely be out, but already you should be thinking towards buying your summer-flowering bulbs for a riot of colour which will last you through the warmer months.

Planting summer-flowering bulbs, such as lilies and gladioli, can provide dramatic effects in summer, as they provide height, structure, colour and often fragrance all in one go.

Summer-flowering bulbs need a bit more care than spring ones. Lilies should be planted in early spring before the bulbs dry out, while dahlias, cannas and begonias are better started off in pots indoors, and then put out when all danger of frost has passed.

Anyone who likes begonias should be scouring the garden centres now for new varieties. There are some amazing, unusual varieties, including B. boliviensis, which looks more exotic than a traditional begonia. Its slender, fluted reddish orange flowers look great hanging from a compact bush and contrasting well with the medium green, serrated foliage.

You can fill a pot or hanging basket with just one plant, and they do best in humus-rich, free-draining soil in sun, or partial shade. Take them inside and store them in a frost-free place over the winter.

Sow seeds of B. boliviensis now, or wait for the pot-ready plants to become available from around April.

If you're thinking about late summer, Crocasmia 'Lucifer' has been crowned 2010 Summer Bulb of the Year by industry professionals.

Crocasmia grow very upright and to a height of about one metre, producing clumps of dense iris-like foliage along bronze green arching stems.

Different bulbs need different soil types, but summer bulbs generally like a warm, sunny position. Free-draining soil is important as bulbs are susceptible to rotting.

Hardy summer bulbs which don't need lifting, such as alliums and crocasmia, are better off planted in the autumn, while more tender types such as gladioli, dahlias, cannas and callas, are started off in spring.

The Royal Horticultural Society offers the following tips for successful bulb-growing in containers:

■ For bulbs that are only going to spend one season in their container, use a mix of three parts multi-purpose compost with one part grit. For long-term container displays, use three parts John Innes No 2 compost mixed with one part grit.

■ Plant at three times their depth and one bulb width apart.

■ Water the bulbs regularly when in active growth, but you can reduce watering once the leaves start to die down and then through the dormant season. However, continue to check pots in winter, ensuring they do not dry out completely.

■ To promote good flowering next year, feed the bulbs every seven to 10 days with a high-potassium fertiliser, such as a liquid tomato feed.

Begin feeding as soon as shoots appear, and stop feeding once the foliage starts to die down at the end of the season.

BEST OF THE BUNCH

Crocus

These pretty pint-sized bulbs with goblet-shaped flowers bring a burst of colour to the garden in spring in shades varying from white and cream to yellow, pink and purple.

They look very effective in drifts at the front of a mixed or herbaceous border, naturalised in grass or in a rock garden.

Spring-flowering varieties should be planted in the autumn and autumn-flowering ones in late summer.

Most prefer gritty, well-drained soil in full sun. Good varieties for naturalising include C. tommasinianus f. albus, a pure white variety, C. chrysanthus 'E.A. Bowles', a lemon-yellow type, and the glossy violet Dutch crocus C. vernus 'Remembrance'.

Transferring jobs, emigrating or
relocating?

Why sell the traditional way?

Get Estate Agents to value it and put it on the market.

Show people around the property
(mostly "nosy parkers" & sightseers).

If no offers received after 2 or 3 months, reduce price.

Show more people around.

Eventually accept an offer at between 5 & 10% off the advertised price.

Hope the sale doesn't fall through (over 30% of sales don't reach completion).

Once price agreed, wait a further 3 months for sale to complete.

Work out how many £000s it has cost you in reducing the price, making mortgage payments, paying Estate Agents fees and legal fees since you started the process (on average, 7 months ago...)

Sell your property the Armchair Investments way...

The simple alternative

- Pay no Estate Agent's fees
- Pay no Legal fees
- No further mortgage payments

Hyundai 'Carmaker of Year'

LEADING industry magazine AM presented the prestigious award of 'Carmaker of the Year' to Hyundai at its recent annual ceremony in Birmingham.

A panel of industry experts led by AM editor Jeremy Bennett gave the accolade to Hyundai over rivals Ford, Land Rover, Jaguar and Kia.

Jeremy said: "With the newly-opened factory in Eastern Europe pumping out high-quality vehicles and dealers selling them at the right price to a consumer base looking for alternative motoring choices, it was only a matter of time before Hyundai entered the mainstream".

Presenting the award, Sky News Today presenter Dermot Murnaghan said: "It has been an amazing year for Hyundai, with a model mix that allowed dealers to take full advantage of the Government scrappage scheme. This is allied to a consistent message and support to its dealers, which had provided the brand with a fantastic start to 2010."

Hyundai's UK managing director Tony Whitehorn said: "We're delighted to win Carmaker of the Year. We have doubled sales and strengthened our retail network. The year 2010 is set to be very promising for us and this award proves we are a brand that people are noticing."

He continued: "We are about to launch our new ix35, which is set to become our flagship model in the UK which will further increase awareness of our brand. "Everyone in the company has worked very hard the last few years in making our brand appeal to a wider audience."

Honda's 3R-C makes debut

THE Honda 3R-C, a revolutionary one-person battery electric vehicle concept, will make its world debut in Geneva alongside the EV-N concept, to be displayed for the first time in Europe.

Both the three-wheeled 3R-C concept, which envisions a single occupant vehicle for zero emission commuting, and the EV-N urban concept, draw on Honda's vast working knowledge of vehicles utilising electric motors.

The 3R-C, a battery electric vehicle concept, shows what a future minimal urban transport vehicle for one person might look like. The battery electric drivetrain is mounted low in the three-wheeled chassis, keeping the centre of gravity low and improving stability.

The 3R-C has a clear canopy that covers the driver's seat while it is parked and not in use. When the vehicle is in motion, the canopy becomes an enveloping wind-shield that provides the pilot, who sits low in the vehicle, with significant protection from the bodywork and doors.

The high sides of the safety shell seat give greater safety to the occupant, reducing the threat from side impacts and improving weather protection. In front of the driver is a lockable boot area. The 3R-C's designers created a flexible cover that surrounds the upper torso to reduce exposure to bad weather and improve comfort.

Car for one: Zero emissions.

The 3R-C study was created by European designers working at Honda's research and design facility in Milan.

The EV-N concept, previously shown at the Tokyo Motor Show, will make its European debut in Geneva.

The EV-N shows the potential application of battery technology in a small, stylish city car.

The first deliveries are for customers in the US and Japan with Europe to follow.

The i30: Accolade for Hyundai.

It's not a good time to part-exchange for a new Volkswagen. It's perfect.

Right now at Vindis Sawston, we will give you an additional part-exchange top-up of up to £1,500 on your old car.* If you've been gnashing your teeth because your car just missed out on the government scrappage scheme, gnash no more. Our scheme will take your 5-9 year old model, and give you an additional allowance on a brand new 2010 plate Volkswagen over and above the part-exchange figure.

Haverhill 15 Bury 20

Under-15
HAVERHILL paid the price for conceding two early tries and then switching off after they drew level.

After their early setbacks they woke up and stopped a potential rout when fly-half Tom Jury went over in the corner.

From then on both sides battled hard to get the upper hand, although Bury stretched their advantage in the second half.

With the driving rain behind them, Haverhill battled back when David Sims took advantage of another penetrating burst from the forwards.

And, as the final whistle neared, Dan Nunn plunged over to make it 15-15 after a break from their own five-metre line featuring George Foley, Jonathan Glenister and Sims.

However, Haverhill nodded off and a last-gasp Bury push earned a try underneath the posts.

Haverhill 10 Hadleigh 30

Under-10
THE abysmal conditions eventually took a toll on Haverhill, whose catalogue of injuries grew as the game progressed.

Skipper Kit Browne led the resistance as they battled to equalise an early try, and excellent defensive work from Oliver Cooper, Oliver Foley and Tyler Neill kept the visitors at bay.

However, they shipped three tries in rapid succession before a good run from Tyler Neill produced a try for Brandon Mackay, who added another late in the game.

But, despite the efforts of Jordan Newman, Enzo Grandenetti and Josh Moseley, Hadleigh stretched away again.

Haverhill 5 Hadleigh 35

Under-12
HAVERHILL struggled to get into the game, shipping two tries in the first 10 minutes. They finally got to grips with the rain-drenched surface and Max Power ran the length of the pitch to pull one back.

Robbie Harris and Josh Pask made some strong runs as Hadleigh were pinned back in their, but injuries to Aiden Petty and Power meant Haverhill ended the first half considerably weakened.

And although they defended their line with great commitment – man-of-the-match Harrison Fernandez leading the resistance – they could not prevent Hadleigh from increasing their score.

Haverhill 10 Hadleigh 8

Under-eight
JOHN Adams led the way as Haverhill attacked Hadleigh from the whistle at the drenched Castle Playing Fields.

Skipper Hayden Rhys opened the scoring, and Adams and Oliver Loveridge helped Haverhill into a 4-3 lead at the interval.

Strong defence by Luke Wheeler and Emma Jo Hines denied Hadleigh any space before a trademark jinking run by Oliver Loveridge allowed speedy winger John Adams to add the first of three further tries.

Aidan Denty, Hayden Rhys (two) and William Atherton completed the scoring.

Cambridge Diamonds 4

West Wrating 3
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12D

WEST Wrating had a loud appeal for a last-gasp penalty waved away as they turned up the pressure in an attempt to salvage a point from a seven-goal thriller.

The visitors found themselves 3-1 down at the break in the atrocious conditions, Dion Whitrid scoring their goal after Wrating's offside trap failed and they twice failed to clear corners.

However, Wrating stepped up a gear and tested the home defence. But, despite creating several chances, they were rocked by a rare Diamonds break that produced their fourth goal.

Man-of-the-match Scott Bishop dragged his side back into the game by tucking home after Ellis Wiffen's shot was saved.

And Charlie Ellam set up a grandstand finish by making it 4-3 with six minutes left. West Wrating 2 Histon A 6

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14A

A LATE switch to the astroturf at Linto did not deter West Wrating, who felt they gave as good as they got against the divisional leaders.

Histon adapted to the conditions first and their opening barrage produced three goals in the first 15 minutes.

However, the Reds' midfield started to fire and Tom Pinker pulled a goal back after collecting Harry Willett's 30-yard pass.

Hopes of a comeback were shortlived as Histon added two more to go into the break 5-1 up, and although Pinker slammed in his second to raise hopes again, the visitors added another to give themselves a comfortable cushion.

Hardwick Harriers 3

Thurflow 4

Under-nine friendly

A LATE Joe Morley goal gave Thurflow the edge after a determined Hardwick comeback.

The visitors' passing game paid early dividends when Joe Morley slotted home and Jack Edwards rounded off a flowing move involving Will Wilson, Finlay Dray and Finlay Plant.

Keeper Toby Egan made some impressive stops before Hardwick pulled a goal back, but when Dray made it 3-1 Thurflow made positional changes and subsequently lost their shape.

Girls fire West Suffolk triumph

Champions: Members of the West Suffolk squad celebrate. CP

THE West Suffolk club are the Suffolk Winter League champions after a nerve-tingling finish to the final round at Deben SC in Woodbridge.

Fifth in the league last year, West Suffolk made a flying start to this year's campaign, winning at Newmarket and then missed top spot by a point in the next round at Bury.

And they clinched the title by finishing first equal with Lowestoft at Deben.

During the thrilling final round, West Suffolk racked up eight wins and 18 second-place finishes in the 43 events, while their all-conquering girls were top of their section. Several personal bests were also clocked.

Individual winners were Alex Taylor, Danny Proffitt, Alex Harrison, Ellie Wright, Bethan Bottomley and Victoria Sparrow.

Even the supporters got in on the act, coming away with the Best Supporters' Cup.

Head coach Dan Pilbrow was delighted by another strong team performance, especially as many of the swimmers had completed a hard training session on the morning of the competition. That means confidence is high as the swimmers approach the Suffolk County Championships at Ipswich over the next three weekends.

Final positions: 1 West Suffolk 949pts, 2 Deben 939, 3 Lowestoft 931, 4 Stowmarket 869, 5 Saxons 740.
